

Website Privacy Policy

This is the website privacy policy for www.dphlegal.com ("the/our website") which is owned by DPH Legal ("the/our firm").

DPH Legal ("the firm") is conscious of the importance of safeguarding the privacy of visitors to the website. Please read the following policy to understand how your information will be processed by the firm.

Information we collect and how it is used

We do not require you to provide any personal information on the public areas of our website, however you may choose to do so by completing forms on various sections of our website e.g.

- Get in touch form
- Online chat
- Information request form

By putting in your personal data to our website you will be giving your consent for that purpose.

It is acknowledged by the firm that the information you provide may be confidential. The firm will maintain the confidentiality and protect your information in accordance with the firm's procedures and all applicable laws.

Updating information

Our firm is legally required to ensure that all your information is kept up to date and accurate. Please ensure that you inform us of any changes to your information. You have a right to request details of the information we hold about you and to remove or rectify any inaccurate information about you by sending the firm a written request.

Cookies

Our website uses cookies. By using our website you are agreeing to our use of these cookies. Cookies allow us to distinguish you from other users of our website. Find out more about our cookies in our Cookie Notice. To see what cookies have been set and how to delete them, visit www.allaboutcookies.org.

External Links

Our website may contain links to other websites. This Privacy Policy applies only to this firm's website so when you access links to other websites you should read their own privacy policies.

We may change this privacy policy from time to time by updating this page.

If you have any questions in relation to this policy please contact us.